

Independent Crossing Bridge

Overview

What is soon to be the world's largest wildlife crossing will connect open space on both sides of US Highway 101 in Agoura Hills and is expected to be completed by fall 2026. Originally called the Liberty Canyon Wildlife Crossing, the bridge will be a critical wildlife crossing, spanning the ten-lane Ventura Freeway, connecting the. After cost overruns and delays pushed back the project by at least a year, the world's largest wildlife bridge finally has a ribbon-cutting date. 2, four-and-a-half years after work began. There are eight bridges in the Bay Area. According to promoter Beth Pratt, the $92 million overpass will accommodate “ everything from monarch butterflies to mountain lions. Newsom weighed in on the project. Officials with the Wallis Annenberg Wildlife Crossing announced Wednesday that SoCal animals will be able to traverse the crossing on Dec.

Independent Crossing Bridge

The Wallis Annenberg Wildlife Crossing is a vegetated overpass currently under construction in Agoura Hills, California, at Liberty Canyon. Originally called the Liberty Canyon Wildlife Crossing, the bridge ...

After cost overruns and delays pushed back the project by at least a year, the world's largest wildlife bridge finally has a ribbon-cutting date. The Wallis Annenberg Wildlife Crossing over ...

After the soil is laid across the nearly 1-acre native wildlife habitat site, about 5,000 native shrubs and wildflowers collected from the surrounding area will be planted on the crossing.

The project was the Wallis Annenberg Wildlife Crossing (WAWC) over US 101 in southern California. According to promoter Beth Pratt, the $92 million overpass will accommodate “ ...

What is soon to be the world's largest wildlife crossing will connect open space on both sides of US Highway 101 in Agoura Hills and is expected to be completed by fall 2026.

Wildlife crossing structures both protect animals from becoming roadkill and reconnect habitats where they have been divided by roads or development. They exist worldwide including ...

The Wallis Annenberg Wildlife Crossing will be a vegetated bridge across U.S. Highway 101 (the Ventura Freeway). It will be the largest wildlife crossing of its type in the nation.

See the details for each bridge to see requirements for a toll discount, or visit FasTrak's Carpool Guide. On January 1, 2026 the carpool requirements are changing on all state-owned bridges except the ...

Once completed, the bridge will allow all forms of wildlife to safely cross the busy 101 Freeway in Agoura Hills, from mountain lions and bobcats to birds and butterflies.

An aerial view of the construction site of the Wallis Annenberg Wildlife Crossing over the 101 freeway on Wednesday in Agoura Hills, California. Photograph: Mario Tama/Getty Images

Contact Us

For more information, pricing, or custom data center solutions, please contact us:

Website: <https://www.yoahorroenergia.es>

Email: hello@yoahorroenergia.es

Phone: +233 54 318 7269

Address: Plot 28, Spintex Road, Accra, Greater Accra, Ghana

This document is for informational purposes only. Specifications subject to change without notice.

